

Smart from the Start's Justice 4 All Initiative invites you to continue the conversation with us as we explore The 1619 Project.

Thursday, August 27th, 2020 at 5:30 pm
on Zoom

The 1619 Project is an ongoing initiative from The New York Times Magazine that began in August 2019, the 400th anniversary of the beginning of American slavery. It aims to reframe the country's history by placing the consequences of slavery and the contributions of black Americans at the very center of our national narrative.

The session will be facilitated by Julye Williams, Founder of Project 2043, a leader and expert in the field of racial and social justice. Julye, a former school leader, now consults with national organizations to provide educational and instructional resources, workshops and technical assistance.

Please join us on Thursday August 27th at 5:30 pm as we engage in conversation to discover what The 1619 Project is, what we can learn from it, and how we can leverage its lessons to honor our collective history and promote a more just and equitable society for our children.

We are excited to be joined by guest speakers Dr. Charmie Curry, an educator, effectiveness coach, and performance management specialist who currently serves as the Director of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion for a public school district in the Greater Boston Area, and Claudia A. Fox Tree (Arawak/Yurumein) who leads conversations "un-erasing" Native American First Nations People and teaches courses and workshops on transforming curriculum and culturally responsive teaching practices.

Justice 4 All is a family-driven, grass roots initiative which believes that our strength lies in our diversity and in our sheer determination to create a more just society for ourselves and our children.

We seek to promote justice, equality, and equity through systemic change and by engaging and empowering those in our community to call out and resist racial injustice where they see it, while actively contributing to the creation of an equitable society that uplifts all people.

We are looking forward to continuing to learn and grow with all of you on Thursday, August 27th at 5:30 pm!
